BOTTOMS UP!

A dozen global vinos donated from Janice and John Markley's private collection filled glass after glass at The Wooden Floor's Keep the Promise Wine Tasting fete. The two philanthropists are avid supporters of the arts-based nonprofit—and lovers of the grape, of course—and they were more than happy to uncork nectars from as far as Italy and France for the 320 oenophiles to savor.

Between sips, guests bid on auction prizes—like a $13,000 bottle of 2006 Dumol Pinot Noir Finn and a vacation—and chatted with The Wooden Floor's students. A final pour? More than $300,000 was netted by the end of it all, making it a very fruitful night, indeed. —KS
