Event Description

Business, civic and community leaders gathered as the Class of 2014 marked the 10th consecutive year that 100 percent of seniors have completed high school on time and immediately enrolled in college. This is at a rate about three times greater than their socio-economic peers, nationwide. Attendees enjoyed a keynote address from Volcom Co-Founder Thom McElroy, student address by Sophia Saenz and college announcements from all 27 students completing their 10-year journey at the organization.

Impact of Event

Proceeds benefit The Wooden Floor's college preparatory and scholarship programs for under-served youth in Santa Ana and the surrounding communities.

Honorees

27 students in the Class of 2014 — The Wooden Floor's largest graduating class to date — were honored by state and local civic representatives and given a chance to share their individual degree and career plans for college.

Primary Contributing Factor to the Success of the Event

Business, civic and community leaders come together to celebrate underserved students who have beaten the odds and are bound for college. Through a dance-based youth development approach coupled with academics and family services, students leave The Wooden Floor well-prepared to step beyond their surroundings and into higher education.
