The commission selected a group of county residents to work on the project.

"They wanted to learn to build," said Jonh Warren, president of Orange County Encouragement of Community Enterprise (OC ECE)

The project is now underway, with the goal of building affordable housing for county residents.

"We're always thinking about ways to encourage people to get involved," said Warren.

The project is expected to provide affordable housing for families in Orange County.